

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.

DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS AND PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

October 28, 1958

Mr. Robert Amory Jr.
Deputy Director,
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington 25, D.C.

Dear Mr. Amory:

Just a brief note to confirm our recent telephone conversation. We are looking forward to having you as our guest lecturer on "The Intelligence Community" in my course in American Military Policy on Monday, November 3. Since I know that you have a meeting to attend later, we will try to get underway promptly at 8:15 a.m. The class is given in room 205, Hall of Government, 21st and G Streets N.W. One of the students (probably a Colonel Perlberg) or myself will plan to meet you at the entrance to the building at about 8:15.

This course is an experimental one -- the first of its kind in the Washington area, modelled after Bart Leach's Defense Seminar at Harvard. I enclose a copy of the course syllabus for your information. As in the Harvard course, we assign the class general readings (in this case Harry Ransom's new book, Central Intelligence and National Security) and a student group does some special intensive preparation. Enclosed is a copy of an outline which they have prepared on the subject. It is designed to benefit the class as a whole, as well as those who wrote it, and incidentally to give the guest some idea of the interests of the group. The class is composed of Air Force officers at G.W.U. under the Advanced Management Program and is therefore a fairly mature group. We have a strict ground rule that no attribution of any statement can be made, so you can rely on being "off the record".

I would hope that you could save 20 minutes or so of whatever time you can spend with us in order to permit questions, as there is considerable student interest in this topic.

Your willingness to give us some of your valuable time is very much appreciated. With thanks, and best regards,

Sincerely,

Tim Stanley
Timothy W. Stanley